

EUROPEAN INVERTEBRATE SURVEY

International Colloquium 2001

The European Invertebrate Survey will organise its next International Colloquium in September 2001. We invite the international community to participate and contribute with presentations of recent research projects related to the central theme

"Recent changes in ranges of invertebrates"

Invertebrates on the move

There will be one or more invited speakers. Lectures on other topics concerning European invertebrate faunal studies are also welcome. There will be possibilities for poster presentations.

Site

The colloquium will be held at the National Museum of Natural History in Leiden, the Netherlands. This institute is situated at 20 km from Schiphol Airport, which has good train connections with Leiden. There are many good hotels in Leiden.

Date

The date for the colloquium proper is Sunday September 2 to Wednesday September 5. The Wednesday is reserved for excursions. On Saturday September 1 and Sunday September 2 the Council and the International Committee will meet.

Fees

A fee of 150,00 Dutch guilders (70 Euro) will cover participation and Proceedings, and the excursion.

Program

The program will contain the following elements.

- September 1 - Saturday: Evening. E.I.S. Council Meeting
- September 2 - Sunday: Meeting of the E.I.S. International Committee. Arrival of other participants and registration
- September 3 - Monday morning and afternoon: Lectures and presentations
- September 4 - Tuesday morning and afternoon: Lectures and presentations
- September 5 - Wednesday. Excursions to coastal dunes and/or fenland

Excursions

Excursion(s) to coastal dunes and/or fenland on Wednesday September 5 will be organized only if there is sufficient interest. Both are very interesting Dutch landscapes with many characteristic invertebrates.
